#RespectHER

CHANTELL DAVIS & KEVIN DAVIS' CAMPAIGN

JOIN THE #RespectHER REVOLUTION

In a world where stereotypes like "men don't cry" and "man up" perpetuate harmful norms, South Africa grapples with one of the world's highest rates of Gender-Based Violence (GBV), a crisis that demands immediate action.

#RespectHER is more than just a movement - it's a revolution. It's a powerful call to action to rewrite the narrative. GBV casts a dark shadow, but we are determined to be the guiding light that empowers men to discover their true identity, live with purpose, and extend respect to all women. Guided by the wisdom of "prevention is better than cure," we are unwavering in our commitment to challenge societal norms and address the root causes of violence through open dialogue, education, support, and healing.

As a mother of four boys, including superfetation twins, my personal experiences have shown me the challenges that boys and young men face in today's society. This fuels my passion. Alongside my husband, we are pioneering this cause to inspire families and communities to unite and become part of the solution. Through "real talk" about authentic manhood, we can mentor boys to become "real men" who respect women. Together, we can cultivate a society where men and women coexist in harmony, mutually supporting and uplifting each other.

Join us in the #RespectHER Revolution. Together, we can make a meaningful difference, illuminating the path to a brighter, safer, and more fulfilling future for all. Your voice, your support, and your actions matter in the fight against GBV.

Vying for the crown

After completing her journey with Mrs South Africa in July, Chantell Davis' commitment to helping individuals break free from the constraints of societal norms and to walk with a purpose remains unwavering. Recognising the profound impact of pageants as platforms for women's empowerment, she has set her sights on a new endeavour – entering Mrs Universe South Africa.

Last Monday (7 August) Davis received the happy news that she was named a semi-finalist in Mrs Universe South Africa 2023, and embarks on an exciting seven-month journey to the crown. "On receiving the astonishing news my heart was brimming with joy and profound gratitude," the Helderberger said.

As part of her Mrs Universe South Africa journey she is committed to helping raise awareness and finding sustainable solutions to combat the pervasive and damaging effects of gender-based violence (GBV), bullying and discrimination that plague all sectors of society. Understanding the transformative potential of "beauty with a purpose", she inflict devastating consequences on individuals, families and communities. In light of this, Davis intends to spearhead impactful initiatives and community engagement programmes to address GBV head-on. Through collaboration with local organisations, educational institutions and community leaders she plans to host seminars, workshops and awareness campaigns that educate, support and inspire individuals to take a stand against GBV to create a safer and more inclusive society.

Driven by a deep-rooted belief that every individual deserves a life free from fear and discrimination, Davis extends an open invitation to all community members to join her. "I extend an open invitation to all community members to join forces, so together we can raise our collective voice, eradicate GBV and pave the way for a future where victims become victors and our community thrives in an environment of compassion, respect and empowerment."

A bite of brekkie, a bit of business

The fundraising charity breakfast "Beyond Business", which seeks to shine a light on the crucial issue of child sexual abuse in the Helderberg, is scheduled to take place on Wednesday 18 October.

The event will be held from 08:00 to 12:00 at the Seven Sisters Vineyards (off Annandale Road) and in aid of Patch, the Helderberg Centre for Child Victims of Sexual Abuse, which continues to offer an invaluable service to the community as a beacon of hope to little ones who have survived devastating trauma.

For those who may not know, Patch is the acronym for the Prevention And Treatment of Child Sexual Abuse in the Helderberg and its surrounding areas. With a title that is self-explanatory this is precisely what the organisation has been doing since it began operating on 2 June 1992. After more than 30 years of performing this rather sensitive, yet necessary function, Patch remains the only organisation in the entire Helderberg that provides free prevention, therapeutic, medical and court support to child victims of rape and sexual abuse.

Kevin Davis, a local pastor, businessman and host of Beyond Business, said: "I am determined to raise awareness and find sustainable solutions to combat the pervasive and damaging effects of gender-based violence (GBV) and child abuse."

Mrs Universe South Africa semi-finalist Chantell Davis shared: "I once lived a life plagued by fear, shame, and rejection.

Through years of personal growth and inner healing, I discovered my true identity and purpose. I am now driven by a deep-rooted belief that everyone deserves a life free from fear and discrimination."

Together the pair are extending an open invitation to all community members to join hands with them, rally in support of the initiative and

WHAT WORLD LEADERS ARE SAYING

"From the first chapter, Chantell paints a vivid picture of how our enemy takes advantage of traumatic circumstances to craftily deceive our minds. Chantell is an example of how we can rise far above the ashes of defeat and hopelessness – to where we are entirely restored and fulfilled. One of the things that makes this book so captivating is Chantell's ability to take us through her transformation journey. Each step of her testimony is backed by rich, biblical truth, carefully woven through it. Making this not only an enjoyable read – but powerfully relatable too."

'Compelling', 'honest', 'profound', and 'life-giving' are only a few words describing this book. Once you started reading, you will not be able to put it down. This courageous young woman's life story will enrich your life! Her extraordinary walk with God opens a new understanding of how God can do far more in and through us than we could ever fathom! A must-read!
